

I'm suffering, because My Body gets devoured by the World's Beast

July 10, 2021 - Words from Jesus thru Sister Clare

(Clare) May the Lord bless you, dear Heartdwellers. Ezekiel began to suffer extreme stigmata pain in his hands and feet. During this suffering, Jesus spoke to him and said...

(Jesus) "I am laying the axe to the root in the church. I will bring a third through the fire."

(Clare) The inference here was that two thirds will not make it through the fire. As the suffering was intensifying, he saw the head of Jesus, which apparently had been ripped from His Holy Body, hanging in the air on a very high pole. The body was nowhere in sight, however, there emerged a huge leviathan like creature resembling a crocodile with fire red eyes and jaws wide open, ready to strike. The left side of this creature's head was smashed, so he only had one eye. Interestingly, the Lord had given me Psalm 74 earlier in the day. (Please read in your Bible)

Today the Lord is talking about a Bride of scorn and contempt. Ezekiel had a vision of a religious sister, a chosen soul. She had a black veil over her face, her eyes were sunken in and she was barely skin and bone.

(Jesus) "This is My worldly bride, she responds to My plea for prayer with scorn, contempt and frustration. She is busy about her own business. When I call to her in the midst of her preoccupations, she rolls her eyes and says to herself... 'What does He want now? I'm busy.'

"My Brides, I made you to stand by My side and comfort Me. I called you to be intercessors who care about nothing more than prayer, whenever it is needed. But you are so tied up in what you are creating that you see these calls as bothersome interruptions. You are breaking My heart with your indifference. When I call you, you are full of unbelief, not wanting to acknowledge the need I am bringing before you, because you are engrossed in your own pursuits. Rather than tenderness and concern, your heart harbors scorn and contempt.

"Is this the Bride I espoused to Myself? One who cares for nothing but her own pursuits? I need you, My Bride, when you see My head raised high on a pole, ripped from My Body, have you no tears of compassion for Me? Or are you saying... 'Oh well... I wonder what that means.' Well, let Me tell you what it means. It means I am suffering on an unprecedented scale, suffering like never before, because My Body is being devoured by the beast of this world.

"Oh, how I long for your tender caress and words of encouragement. Oh, how painful to see My chosen souls indifferent to My entreaties. Yes, I expect this from the world, but from you? My chosen ones? My heart is breaking from your indifference. I charge you... Enter into My suffering with Me. No longer stand at a distance and gawk; come to My side, rushing to comfort Me, in full awareness of how horrible this suffering is.

"For those of you who have run to My side, embraced Me and cried out for Me, I thank you, for you have taken away some of the most acute stabs of pain in My heart by your desire to comfort Me. And for those of you who don't, strengthen what is left before you lose it all. Set your heart on Me, not on what you think you are doing for Me. Don't allow Me to feel the weight of your indifference and unbelief. Strengthen what is left before even that is taken from you.

“You have found your sense of worth in what you are doing in this world, even what you are doing for Me. Rather, I want you to find your sense of worth ONLY in caring for Me, tending My wounds and strengthening My legs as I watch My disheveled Bride being stripped of her faith. Yes, there are those who are stripping away the faith we have worked so hard to build in your hearts. They are replacing it with scorn and contempt for being interrupted. Yes, I see the outer form, but the inner light and fortitude for the real cause is lacking. Strengthen what remains before even that is stripped from you.

“I need you, My Bride. For pity’s sake, respond in faith, love and devotion. Burden Me no longer with your weariness in responding to the call for prayer. There is nothing worse than a disinterested, unfaithful, scornful Bride.”

Then, Mother Mary began to speak... “He loves and cares for you in even the littlest of necessities. He is calling you to have that kind of fidelity for Him. There is nothing He will deny the faithful soul if it is good for them. All He asks in return is your solicitous care for Him.

“Accompany Him, my beloved ones. Oh, how He loves your comfort. It’s really the little things, the little expressions of love and caring that He longs for. You see how He provides for everyone and everything on this earth, He just asks for your recognition of that and comfort when He is suffering.

“Is this too much to ask? Of course not, I know your hearts, you all care deeply; part of what you are missing is how much He needs your comfort.

“People go through an entire lifetime not thanking Him for anything, but His chosen souls, they know, they understand, so He looks to you for His comfort and your companionship. It is not His heart to shame you or make you sad, but to convey to you exactly how much He does need you.

“It takes so little to please Him, so little. A glance, a kiss, a hug, a sigh of deep concern, all of this matters very, very much. Part of the problem is that you do not realize how vulnerable He truly is.

“It is a process, not something that can be rushed. One day at a time. A tender heart; that is what He longs for.

“You remember in "The Chosen" when they were sitting around the campfire, arguing over foolishness, and He came into their midst, exhausted and totally spent. I rushed to His side to comfort Him. It truly is so, the little gestures mean a great deal.

“I know that you love Him, dear ones, He knows it too, we are just trying to get your priorities straight, so that you can enjoy one another and give Him the kind of care He needs. This often is, because the world is doing so much to sicken His Heart.

“He also pines for you and the dilemmas you have to face every day. He cares very much and longs to direct you in the right directions. Go now, and do not be sad or downtrodden, truly, He loves you. It will seem that you’ve been blown off course, but truly He has you right where He wants you, it is just necessary to give up your agendas and recognize when the winds of The Holy Spirit are blowing you into a better course.”
